CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Eller pitched one of the most remarkable games in world series history here today and the Reds practically clinched the championship by defeating Chicago 5 to 0. Williams had one hit inning, as he did in the second game of the series, and it was enough to cost him the game. The series now stands 4 to 1 in favor of Moran's crew and two of the Cincinnati victories have been shut out.

WEATHER IS FINE
(International News Service.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Monday dawned fair with moderate temperatures and ideal weather for the fifth game of the world series here this afternoon.

RAINED OUT SUNDAY
(International News Service.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Old kid world series called today from the knockout punch handed him by the greatest of all champions—the weather man—and prepared to do a come back. The slightly rainstorm that rendered the fifth game of the series hors du combat Sunday has entirely gone, and under slightly cool but favorable weather conditions the contest was resumed today. Postponement of yesterday's game provided the dopesters another 24 hours in which to work, and as a result speculation of the effect of the Sunday lay-off upon the contestants came.

The official scorer then gave Rousch a three bagger. Schalk was put out of the game for protesting and Linn took his place. Duncan sacrificed, a fly to Jackson, and Rousch scored. Koph out on a fly to Felsch. Four runs, three hits, one error.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS MARK OBSERVANCE OF "RALLY DAY" BY SEVERAL CHURCHES

Collections Are Taken to Aid in Education of Dixie Children

DRAMA DEPICTS END OF LABOR TROUBLES
Reports Show Growth of Schools in the Primary Departments.

(By J. E. Blair.)
At this time of the year occur the rally and promotion days of the local Sunday schools. A number of such occasions were observed in the Twin cities yesterday-morning. The whole eleven o'clock service at the First Presbyterian church of Decatur was taken up with a special children's program. An address of welcome was made by Frances Hine, one of the most advanced of the younger grade pupils. Six little boys, the sons of Rev. W. N. Sholl, John William Wyker, Fred B. Hunt, Arthur A. Jones, W. B. Morrow, and W. B. Holmes were the first of the pupils to recite. These little fellows marched in, to music and what they said embodied many of the teachings of Christ.

A part of Frederick Hunt Jr.'s talk was: "He would have us be true, and love not hate." Led by tiny Louise Sholl, in song, six little girls or more, next entertained the large audience.

The Junior Department of the school led by Clara Berry Hymt came next and after their leader had sung each stanza of the songs assigned the other girls joined heartily in the choruses.

A delightful number of the program was the vocal solo by Miss Aline Camody.

John D. Wyker, the superintendent of the school, then stated, that according to the reports of the Southern Presbyterian church, there were 4,000,000 children in the South who had no adequate means of coming in touch with the teachings of Christ.

Mr. Wyker then took a generous collection of money to be used especially in the religious education of the mountain children of the South. There were two other especially impressive exercises of this program.

The baptism of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newton Humphreys, Frank Newton Jr., according to the rites of the Southern Presbyterian church. The other was the presentation by Mr. Wyker of a full blown Cosmos flower, to each of the very small children present, who were members of the school's "Cradle Roll."

The mothers of these children attended them during this ceremony which was closed with an earnest prayer by the Pastor of the church, Rev. W. N. Sholl. Before the children's day services closed, Rev. Sholl preached the children a beautiful sermonette, the text of which was "Re-

TROOPS ARE CALLED OUT TO SUPPRESS RIOTING IN STEEL STRIKE DISTRICTS

Martial Law to be Declared the Moment That Further Disorders Noted

MORE MILLS OPENED
TODAY, IS CLAIMED
Sixty Per Cent of Men Back at Pittsburgh, the Operators Assert.

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The senate committee investigating the steel strike has voted definitely to carry investigation to the Pittsburgh district, Senator Kenyon, chairman, announced today.

(International News Service.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Following a night of rioting in east Chicago and Gary, Ind., Indiana state militiamen are today guarding all approaches to steel plants in those cities, prepared to enforce martial law at the first sign of a clash between non-union steel workers and strikers.

Anticipating serious trouble when the mills today in the face of threats by union leaders to "oppose to the utmost any effort to re-open the mills," Adjutant General Harry B. Smith is keeping close watch on the situation, armed with an order for martial law, all signed and giving him power to assume military control.

Strike leaders have greatly increased the number of pickets at the various mills.

TO AMERICANIZE LABOR
(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Immediate steps for the Americanization of all industrial workers will be one of the recommendations of the senate committee investigating the steel strike. Senator Kenyon, chairman of the committee, was today planning to urge that congress take immediate steps to provide a plan for Americanization. There is already a bill before the committee which provides for federal action to further Americanization, and Senator Kenyon hopes that he will be able to speed this measure up.

MANY PLANTS RESUME
(International News Service.)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6.—Steel plants in the Pittsburgh district that have been closed for two weeks, threw open their gates today and attempted to resume operations. Early reports said that workmen returned in large numbers. One of the three great blast furnaces of the United States Steel corporation at Clairton that has been "down" was blown in today. Four large mills at Donora started this morning. The Carnegie Steel company reported that the largest force since the beginning of the strike reported for duty on the night shift. Officials reported today that 60 per cent of their employees would return to work.

LYNNE FAVORED VETO OF THE MEASURE TO PREVENT STRIKES
Explains That Bill Was Passed by Solons Without Knowledge of True Import.

Veto by the governor or failure to sign the anti-strike bill was favored by Representative S. A. Lynne, he declared on his return here from a visit to Sheffield and Florence. The measure got through both branches of the legislature on the final night of the session and Mr. Lynne's vote has been used here by anti-consolidationists in an effort to arouse sentiment among the labor vote against the measure providing for consolidation of cities with a certain population and which would allow a vote on the proposed merger of Albany and Decatur.

Mr. Lynne was asked: "Were the

TWO NEGROES LYNCHED ONE SHOT TO DEATH BY MOB IN GEORGIA

(International News Service.)
LINCOLNTON, Ga., Oct. 6.—Three negroes are dead and race feeling at a high tension here, following the shooting Sunday morning of Deputy Sheriff Roy Freeman and Royce Fortson. Freeman is today at death's door.

Mose Martin, negro, was shot by possemen late Sunday when he was heard to criticize organized efforts to capture Jack Gordon, accused of the shooting. Gordon and Will Brown, negroes, who had been arrested and placed in jail charged with shooting the officers, were taken from the Lincoln jail early this morning, dragged to the outskirts of the town, shot to death and their bodies burned.

Freeman was shot when he went to arrest Gordon, charged with attention to a returned soldier's wife.

GENERAL UPRISING OF ARKANSAS
BLACKS WAS SET TO BEGIN TODAY

(International News Service.)
HELENA, Oct. 6.—The situation throughout Phillips county, where race riots have prevailed for the last four days, was reported "quiet" by military authorities today. Small squads of soldiers and citizens' organizations continued to search the district for rioters, and while several arrests were made during Sunday and last night no clashes were reported.

According to information in the hands of the "committee of seven" appointed by civil authorities to investigate the negro uprising which resulted in the death of 24 persons, the negroes had planned a general uprising today. According to information the negroes were to demand of the white men excessive prices for cotton and to start quarrels with the white cotton buyers. A number of the white cotton buyers named were discovered as the ones who were to be shot during the quarrel. This was to be the signal of a general uprising throughout the county.

INCREASED STREET CAR FARES NOW IN EFFECT HERE TODAY

Albany-Decatur today ran across another increase in the high cost of living when passengers on street cars who had been wont to hand the blue-topped conductor a jitney found it took a couple of additional pennies to satisfy him. The seven cent fare went into effect today.

Kiddies en route to school on school days still can ride for five cents but grown ups who are without ticket must pay seven. Books of 4 can be purchased for 25 cents and books of 100 for $6.

The increase in fares was granted last week by the city councils of the two municipalities following a petition for the raise filed by A. A. Hardage, recently appointed receiver for the company by the Federal court.

Mr. Hardage, in his petition to the city fathers, set forth the financial condition of the company and declared additional revenue is necessary for the continued operation of the system because of increased cost of maintenance and the necessity of allowing increased wages to the employees.

ITALIAN KING TO RATIFY THE TREATY BY ROYAL DECREE

(International News Service.)
PARIS, Oct. 6.—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy may ratify the peace treaty by royal decree today, says Homme Libre, Premier Clemenceau's newspaper. The Italian parliament is not in session. The newspaper says that the ratification of three powers, to make the league of nations effective, will be secured by October 12.

FIRST MEETING OF LABOR LEADERS AT REQUEST OF WILSON HELD AT CAPITAL

Momentous Matters Will Be Discussed by Representatives of Many Crafts.

VERY CLOSE TO HEART OF NATION'S EXECUTIVE
Dr. Grayson Indicates That Mr. Wilson's Temperature Affected by Worry.

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—After a satisfactory night, President Wilson continued to hold the improvement that was noted in his condition yesterday. This was the gist of the bulletin issued at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Dr. Grayson said that the President's temperature was none too good, but it is not bad. This was due to the fact that he was desirous of sending some messages to the industrial conference which he called and which will open this afternoon. Dr. Grayson said he had done his best to dissuade the president from making this effort, but refused to state definitely whether he had succeeded. This gave rise to the report that the conference might receive a very brief message from the president.

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—There are but two ways by which the general standard of living of the wage workers can be improved, Secretary of Labor Wilson declared this afternoon in opening the President's round table conference of representatives of capital, labor and the public. There are he said: 1—By increased productivity making more material available for wages; 2—By taking the means of increased compensation out of the profit of the employer.

"If wages are increased and profits remain the same," Mr. Wilson continued, "the burden is passed on to the public in the form of increased cost of living and comes back to the wage worker himself. No portion of improved living standards can come out of the profits of the employers unless there is profiteering."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The first big issue to come up before the industrial conference this afternoon will be open sessions. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was prepared to lead the fight for open conferences. Any

CONVERTED BY WESTERN TRIP. HAYES NOW FOR CONSOLIDATION

Well Known Labor Leader Says Merger is the Only Way Cities Can Progress

"My eyes have been opened on the question of the consolidation of the towns of Albany and Decatur," said Carl M. Hayes, a prominent labor representative and a member of the Federated Crafts Council of five of the Louisville and Nashville shops. In an authorized interview Mr. Hayes said: "For a time a kind of pride kept me from advocating the consolidation of these towns. I was raised in New Decatur and attended the schools here and served my time in the Louisville and Nashville shops, and when I was appealed to not to support consolidation on the ground that it would do away with the identity of my native town, the appeal had some effect at one time. But as I said I have had my eyes opened of late.

OUR FAITH IN THE FUTURE IS UNSHAKEN

The Daily's faith in the future is no strong and so rock-ribbed that it remains unshaken despite the gloomy forebodings of Mr. E. W. Godbey, who in today's issue of this newspaper again inquires "who pays?" for the recently authorized street improvements. The article in question is more or less interesting, and was perhaps intended to be sarcastic. It was also a bit rambling, for such extraneous issues as the public schools and the public parks are cleverly drawn in to divert public attention from the street paving program.

"There will be no special assessments against any of the editor's property for this improvement," writes Mr. Godbey. This is quite true, and it is equally as true that no one regrets this so much as does the editor himself. It certainly would be a pleasure to own property in Albany on which to pay taxes of all kinds, and if the editor belonged to the favored category of those who have accumulated large holdings here through the opportunities that the town has offered, he would not be listed with the "timorous few" who now object to doing something for the town.

No amount of sophistry, no juggling of words can hide the fact that Albany began to grow when its first street improvements were completed. The courts have decided, in many instances, that the enhancement in the value of the property against which the cost of these improvements was assessed exceeded the cost of the improvements. Or in other words, the future paid for the excellent streets of one of the fairest little cities in the state. It was just simply a question of being progressive and accepting some good streets gratis, or of being reactionary and remaining in the rut.

The Daily strongly advocates better public schools, and believes that the day is not far distant when new and commodious school buildings will be erected. It does not believe that the erection of these buildings is in any way contingent upon street improvement retrenchment. On the other hand, it is thoroughly convinced that the influx of population that will result from a better-paved city will in itself be one of the strongest arguments for a more modern school system. That those who have no children to educate should be interested in the public schools is just as commendable as for those who own no real estate to be interested in street paving or anything else that relates to the building of a greater city.

Albany need expect no spontaneous growth. "The gods help those who help themselves."

THE RESIGNATION OF MR. WHITTON.

The resignation of Mr. E. R. Whitton as superintendent of the local water-works is a distinct loss to the Twin Cities. For thirty years he had been on the job, and during that entire period had served the public so faithfully, so efficiently and so disinterestedly that no cause for complaint was ever made. Few public utilities can claim such a record, and few men come to be held in such high esteem as Mr. Whitton was. That he is to spend the remaining years of his life in less arduous pursuits is a meta and proper, for he has earned the right.

THE ANTI-STRIKE BILL WAS "TRICK" LEGISLATION

One of the bills enacted by the late legislature that is out of joint with the sentiment of the people of Alabama is that prohibiting strikes. That this bill passed at all was due to the activities of a pernicious lobby, that rushed it through the house on the last day of the session, during a period of general confusion. That it will die on the Governor's desk for lack of his approval, or will be vetoed outright may be safely predicted. Such a law would reduce the workingman to the condition of a serf and would rob him of his most effective weapon for bettering his condition. It is unfortunate that any refuses and clever manipulation should be resorted to in attempts to secure legislation of this character. Yet, it is undeniably true that many measures were either passed or defeated by the tricksters, while one bill, at least, was stolen outright.

THE SUNDAY LEDGER ENTERS THE FIELD

The Birmingham Ledger, which has taken on new life and has entered the ranks of real metropolitanism, issued its first Sunday edition yesterday. The big paper—for it consisted of 110 pages—carried a volume of advertising that not only spoke the strong hold which the Ledger has upon the advertisers of the Magic City, but also made it plain that the venture was justified by sound business judgment. The Sunday Ledger also made a bid for wider circulation by reducing the price per copy to 5 cents, an innovation that will prove pleasing to the public. It is true that the value of the news print paper in this single issue was more than a mere titney, but the loss in this respect was more than offset by the heavy volume of paid matter. Carefully edited, well printed and with a commendable typographical neatness, the Sunday Ledger was every whit as good as any Sunday newspaper issued in the United States on that particular day. The Daily is well pleased to note the progress that is being made by the daily press of Birmingham.

WILSON AND JOHNSON IN 1877.

(Nashville Tennessean.)
Does history repeat itself? The fearlessly independent Los Angeles Times, in turning against the once popular idol of California, delves deeply into the past to find an analogy between the present situation and that which the country faced after the revolutionary war. Here is a most interesting one. In Elliott's history of the convention of 1877, in which the Constitution of the United States was drafted, appears an account of the Johnson-Wilson debate. They were both present; Wilson of Pennsylvania advocating the formation of a Federal Government with supreme power over the territory of the United States; and Johnson of Connecticut, pacifist and Tory during the revolution, opposing the Federal Constitution in the convention, because, he said, it meant a surrender of the sovereignty of the individual states.

Wilson was an able and courageous advocate of the Constitution. Some of his utterances take rank with those of President Wilson on the League of Nations. Consider the following:

Taxation should be in proportion to wealth, but representation should accord with the number of freemen. The government is the collection or the result of the will of all; if any government could speak the will of all it would be perfect, and so far as it departs from this, it becomes imperfect.

The sentiment here expressed is commonplace now; but it was new and regarded by the representative from Connecticut as revolutionary when advanced in the Federal convention.

The reply of Johnson of Connecticut, who too was then a United States Senator, makes the analogy more perfect. Said he:

States are political societies. For whom are we to form a government? For the people of America or for those societies? Undoubtedly for the latter.

Here is logic on a par with that of another Johnson of the present time.

But Johnson of Connecticut had more to say. When the motion was made under the old Federation to call a constitutional convention he

"SYRUP OF FIGS" IS LAXATIVE FOR CHILD

Look at tongue! Remove poisons from stomach, liver and bowels.

Accept "California" Syrup of Figs only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless laxative or physic for the little stomach, liver and bowels. Children love its delicious fruity taste. Full directions for child's dose on each bottle. Give it without fear. Mothers! You must say "California."

was against it. He wanted to preserve the integrity of the state governments; he wasn't going to consent to going into any government where the big state of New York would have six or seven times as many votes as the state of Connecticut. New York was a polyglot state; her Dutch population was quarrelsome; she would be getting into war after war, and Connecticut would have to do the fighting. Connecticut would be outvoted six to one by New York in the House of Representatives and the sons of Connecticut would be sent all over the world at the behest of New York. Connecticut would have been better off to remain a crown province.

The Times draws the conclusion that perhaps it is in the blood that the tribe of Wilson should be for a supreme government that "is a collection or result of the wills of all" and that the tribe of Johnson of Connecticut should be against it. It further raises the significant query as to whether Senator Johnson of California (1919) is not a lineal descendant of Senator Johnson of Connecticut (1787) as well as the heir of his ideas.

But there is a difference between the two Johnsons which the esteemed Times overlooked. The obstructionist of revolutionary days was not an adept at politics. In opposing a federation of free states he was uninfluenced by political aspirations. The same cannot be said of Hiram W.

Voice of the People

WHO PAYS AND WHO REPAYS?
Mr. Editor:

The Albany-Decatur Daily meets my criticisms of the $475,000.00 to be paid out of comparatively few non-pareil property owners in a small pieced town by the weighty argument involved in the use of such slang epithets as "Gloomy Gus," and the like. Prior to the proposed cutting of this half million dollars improvement melon—the Daily's columns were glum wit h gloomy foreboding of the catatronics of coming chaos, and teemed with the heralds of direct distress, and of acutest unrest in all the annals of time.

To the suggestions that special assessments, payable by the future, have proved and will prove the straw to break the back of some heavily burdened home-owners; the heavy editorial writer apes the optimistic editor by burying his head in the sands of a desolated past and calls it "faith in the future." That faith, however, fits the dictionary definition of "superstition."

The editor ignores the fearfully inadequate school facilities; and squalid appearance of school grounds; and the fact that interest on this huge fund would for all time properly equip our schools, beautify the grounds, and provide for every destitute child in our midst, as well as ample hospital facilities and free care for all our penniless sick.

There will be no special assessments against any of the editor's property, for this improvement which he has labeled "stupendous," yet his paper get shundreds of dollars of that fund for advertising the procedure. It is apt, therefore, for him to refer to "timorous parasites who sit tight in the boat, and profit by the expenditures of others."

The entomological editor has Bur-banked or Darwinized the only boat—sticking bug in captivity, as an off set to the unparalleled saturnalia of riotous extravagance which is coeval with the humiliating neglect of our so called park system, the ravines and briars and weeds of which, are to be bordered with a costly pavement, like unto a jewel in a swine's snout.

The amount thus to be expended would convert the parks into beauty spots, for health and pleasure. The Daily lately published that the reciev-ership of the street car company was due largely to such assessments. Partly as a consequence, we, who were a short time back "the future" must pay 7 cents to ride on the cars, if we have no flivvers. These stupendous "improvements" blows at the car tracks and car funds will mean ten cent fares in "the future" yet to be.

The gist of the editor's argument seems to be that any conservative view is timorous; hence he conjures up a parasite that is "timorous," which bug is of the genus humbug, and the editor's motto seems to be "on with the dance, after us the de-luge."

Firemen Grieve For Pat is Dead

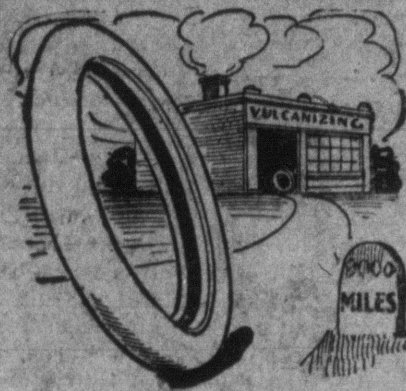

There is an air of sadness about the city hall, for Pat, the black kitten, favorite pet of the firemen, is dead.

Pat met death in a most unusual way when he undertook to make a lodging room of the space under the hood of the big fire truck. Squeezing in, without knowledge of the firemen, he rested comfortably until the engine was started. Flying fur warned the firemen there was something wrong and an investigation disclosed all that was left of Pat—and it was little enough!

member, now, thy Creator in the days of thy youth."

Those drilling the children in their parts were: Mrs. F. S. Hunt, Miss Janie Morrow and Mrs. Will Wyker. At the Westminster

The best thing to break strikes is the Gospel lived and taught, according to a novel drama as played at the Westminster Children's Promotion day services held yesterday morning. "The strike is off," was shouted in unison by the many children on strike and dressed to suit the part, the moment that George Jackson, called "David" in the play and who was on strike, gave a proper invitation to the strikers to attend his Sunday School. But David did not see the light or his duty until the striking children had presented their claims. One little girl, said that she helped spin the thread that made the clothing for David; another said that away down in Texas she helped pick the cotton; a boy said that his father helped make corn and potatoes for David. Others showed the part their people took in sustaining society.

It was then that David, who represented capital, began to scratch his head in thought and declared "Why I never knew you all before or what you were doing. I just thought of you as 'wops' and 'dagos.' Suppose we all change our attitude and start out by you all coming to my Sunday school. It was following this invitation by David that the striking children shouted the "strike is off."

In the last part of the play all the children renewed their pledges to America as the only home of the free, and pledged allegiance to the only flag that can be placed above the stars and stripes, which proved to be, when unfurled the sign of the Cross of Christ. With this flag carried by the leader of the former strikers all the children then marched from the church by way of the front vestibule.

Besides a number of other entertaining features, reports were given by the following, as representing various departments of the Sunday School: For the Seniors: Miss Ellen Groenendyke; Advanced Girls classes: Mrs. C. E. Hubbard; Junior Department: Mrs. George Jackson; Primary Department: Mrs. F. L. Goodwin. The last named department staged a highly meritorious program just before the regular program was called by the Superintendent of the School. The first numbers of this program were several declamations by small boys, who as they began their task raised a banner over them inscribed: "Onward and Upward." A similar class of girls also recited standing under a banner inscribed: "Rally Day."

Out of entire enrollment in this school of 135, the primary department has enrolled 35 children in the last few months under the tireless leadership of Mrs. Goodwin, their teacher.

At the close of the Primary department's exercises Mrs. Goodwin led her pupils in reciting the Lord's Prayer. One pupil, Carolyn Hayes, was promoted from this department to the Junior.

Under the direction of Marvin Rankin, the Superintendent, a special collection was taken to be devoted to the needs of the immigrant class of Americans. Rev. L. F. Goodwin, pastor of the church, closed the services with an inspiring address and earnest prayer.

The two church workers responsible for executing this program were, Mrs. E. C. Payne and Mrs. L. F. Goodwin.

Central Baptist.

The Central Baptist Sunday school, of which D. D. Gibson is superintendent, held a very largely attended Rally day service last Sunday, which consumed the entire time of both the school and preaching hours. There were three hundred in attendance at this rally, and a collection of $325 was taken for the cause of missions.

An extensive program, was carried out, on which every member of the entire Sunday school served. A special address was made by the pastor of the church, Rev. W. P. Wilks.

First Meeting of Labor Leaders effort to have executive sessions will be vigorously opposed by the labor group, and it was hinted that were they unsuccessful in their fight they might withdraw from the conference. The situation caused by the refusal of the four railroad brotherhoods to participate in the conference was smoothed out today when the railroad men reversed their decision.

The cabinet was in session today to consider a program for the conference. The meeting started at 11 o'clock and when Attorney General Palmer emerged at noon to attend the opening of the supreme court, he said: "We have just begun." Discussion of the big steel strike will be forced to the front at the conference. This decision was reached at a meeting shortly before the time the conference was scheduled to convene.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Nation's industrial future is being planned today.

With widely varied strikes hanging like a pall over progress in the country's industry, half a hundred leading men representing the general public, labor and those who direct labor, gathered here today under invitation of the President to better "the whole relationship of capital and labor," to put "the whole question of wages upon another footing," and thus eradicate "a danger greater than the danger of war."

Industrial warfare now greatly hindering the recovery of the country's industry to its natural and normal course of development, after the demoralizing effects of war, the elimination of the serious consequences of strikes and lockouts, without encroachment on the recognized right of workers to exert pressure through unionization, will be one of the chief aims of the conference.

"THE OTHER HALF" AT STAR THEATRE TODAY

Because some have eyes but cannot see, is the reason "The Other Half"—the less fortunate of humankind—must toil and sweat under unjust conditions. "No sentiment in business" was the maxim Donald Trent had inherited from his millionaire father, and the pursuit of money made him blind to the conditions of his employees. "The Jazz King" synecgated "Sweet Cookie Mine" while she toiled in the hot laundry, and did her bit in spreading sunshine. Katherine, the blue-blooded heiress, saw the light and spread good cheer in her "Ray O' Hope" newspaper. Jimmie aMin's physical sight was restored when he realized the truth, and Donald's spiritual vision was cleared by an appreciation that "the brotherhood of man" was the solution of labor injustices and unrest.

DOCTORS USE CALOTABS FOR COLDS AND FLU

Influenza and Grippe, Like Ordinary Colds, Require Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless, Safe and Sure.

Physicians and druggists claim that the great epidemic of influenza has conclusively demonstrated that the quickest relief for a cold and the best preventive of influenza and pneumonia is to keep the liver active so that the digestive organs may be in perfect condition. For this purpose Calotabs, the new nausealess calomel tablets that are free from the sickening and weakening effects, is the most thorough and dependable, as well as the most agreeable laxative.

Calotabs have the special advantage of not making the patient sick and weak, as they do not upset the digestion and appetite. One Calotab at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure, or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. For your protection, Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Sold by all druggists and your money back if you are not delighted with them.—Advertisement.

SWANNANOA
In the lovely "Land of the Sky"
There's a stream goes rippling by;
"Swannanoa! Swannanoa!"
Is the burden of its cry.

'Tis the name of the nymph that dwells
Where the water dips and swells;
"Swannanoa! Swannanoa!"
O the silvery syllables—

The spirit of beauty she,
And no mortal eye may see
"Swannanoa! Swannanoa!"
Save in dreams when sunsets flee.
She is one with the foam and floss
Of the dancing waves that toss
("Swannanoa! Swannanoa!")
'Neath the banks of fern and moss.

Of the eddies that swirl and dart
She is ever a living part;
"Swannanoa! Swannanoa!"
With the happy singing heart.

He who has known the thrill
Of her voice from under the hill—
"Swannanoa! Swannanoa!"
He will be haunted still.

Hearken! the wind goes by,
And I needs must follow the cry—
"Swannanoa! Swannanoa!"
To the lovely "Land of the Sky."
—Clinton Scollard in New York Sun.
The author might be interested in knowing that, according to the late Col. Allen T. Davidson, an authority, the word "Swannanoa" means something like, "the sweep (or swish) of a great bird's wing."

"THE ONE WOMAN" AT THE MASONIC THEATRE TODAY

The special Mastercraft production, "The One Woman," by Thomas Dixon, will be presented by Select Pictures at the Masonic theatre today and Tuesday.

"The One Woman" is a thrilling story of love, religion and politics, concerning the faithful devotion of the "one woman" and the misguided career of Frank Gordon, a young clergyman, who leaves his wife and family to follow the advice of Kate Ransom. Gordon holds the pulpit of a fashionable New York church, but as his leaning toward socialism become more pronounced, he is asked to resign. His only comforter is Miss Ransom, who finally urges Gordon to solicit funds for the erection of a "temple of man." At last Gordon is successful in obtaining the money, and before the new temple is completed he divorces his wife and enters into a common law agreement with Kate. When the temple is dedicated Gordon is proclaimed a leader of men. The time comes, however, when one of his radical lieutenants takes steps to bring a vote against conscription. Gordon protests, but he is overruled, and in the end he leaves the church broken-hearted, several of his ideals already having slipped from his grasp.

When Gordon reaches his home he finds his common-law wife in the arms of another man. He struggles with the man who thus attempts to break up his home and in the fight he kills him. Gordon's former wife in the meantime still loves him, and when Gordon is sentenced to prison for the remainder of his life, his former wife goes to the governor and obtains his pardon. Thus, the "one woman" takes back to her heart the man who has turned against her and has sinned before the whole world.

"MUTT AND JEFF" AT MASONIC OCTOBER 10

The next attraction out of the ordinary is underlined to hold the boards at the Masonic theatre Friday, October 10th. The new play is the latest version of the famous comic of "Bud" Fisher and is entitled "Mutt and Jeff's Dream." It is in three acts and five scenes and includes twenty original musical numbers contributed by Jarold Wright and Seymour Furth. Manager Gus Hill has surrounded the noted funmakers with an exceptional cast composed of thirty clever people selected from the cream of vaudeville, farce, musical comedy and the legitimate stage. If you have enjoyed Mutt and Jeff in the past you will no doubt find infinite joy in this riot of laughter, hilarity, melody and screams. It is brand new in every respect and should more than permeate the popularity of the two cartoon heroes whose names are synonymous of mirth, entertainment and joy eternal.

Dealers Urged to Search for Idle Freight Cars

Detroit Manufacturer Begins National Wide Campaign to Offset Impending Shortage.

Quick and concentrated action toward the relief of the threatening freight car shortage is being undertaken by the automobile industry. The efforts at present are being directed primarily against unnecessary delays in loading and unloading and in preventing the holding of cars for "prospective movements."

As they did two years ago, when the freight car shortage reached an alarming stage, Dodge Brothers, Detroit motor car manufacturers, have asked their entire organization, which extends to virtually every locality in the United States, to cooperate in the "speed-up" campaign. A Dodge Brothers executive commented on the situation as follows:

"We have asked all our dealers to notify us by wire as soon as they discover that an automobile freight car or a string of cars is being unnecessarily held up. We are positive that hundreds of such cars are on the sidings, particularly in the western districts. Presumably these cars are being held for 'later consignment,' but we must eliminate the 'later' and get these cars moving now. We emphasize our statement that dealers themselves should under no circumstances lose time in unloading and turning freight cars back to the railroads. If every trifling delay is eliminated the situation will be much less severe than the present outlook indicates and motor car dealers will benefit to a degree proportionate with their efforts to relieve the shortage."

It was added by the executive that there are fewer freight cars in active service now than at any time in the last three years.

The campaign undertaken by Dodge Brothers is in line with the advice of the Director General of the Railway Administration, who conceded a few days ago that there was grave danger of a freight car shortage. In asking shippers to give their co-operation, he suggested prompt loading and unloading of freight cars, and hauling by motor truck as the most important means of affording relief.—Advertisement.

NEGRO IS SLAIN IN LIMESTONE COUNTY

Al Peebles, negro, was killed Saturday afternoon just across the river from here and Cleveland Hundley, another negro, charged with the killing is held in the Limestone county jail.

Hundley came to Decatur Saturday afternoon and walked to the Morgan county jail, where he loudly called for an officer to come lock him up. He was held until Sunday when the Limestone sheriff was notified and came over for the prisoner. Peebles was killed with a shot gun. It is claimed he shot at Hundley twice with a pistol.

CAN'T REMEMBER WHEN I'VE FELT QUITE SO WELL

Am Full of Energy and Vitality; Have Fine Appetite; Sleep Sound; Constipation Overcome; Stomach Right Again, Since Taking Drecto.

When a person has been half sick, feeling dull, tired and "no account," then gets a medicine that puts new energy and vim into his every-day life, he feels like letting others know about it. That's how this man feels. He is Mr. D. T. Carter of 406 Pine street, Anniston, Ala.

"For years I've suffered awful pains in my back from deranged kidneys. Sometimes I'd have to get up five or six times during the night. I also had headaches and was very constipated, and my food seemed to ferment in my stomach and form sour gas, which caused much uneasiness and distress. I was very dizzy at times and had about lost my appetite. I had tried many different medicines, but none helped me, and I'd given up all hope of ever getting well again. I heard so much about Drecto I bought a bottle, and right from the start it did me good. It soothed my stomach and stopped the gas; put a stop to the constipation and headaches, also the dizziness, and my appetite got better every day. The pains in my back and kidneys have been entirely relieved, and now I go to bed and sleep all night long, and never have to get up during the night as I formerly did."

Drecto is made of the juices and extracts of many herbal plants, which act on the kidneys, liver, bladder, stomach and blood, and corrects many troubles, such as gas on the stomach, constipation, weakness, poor appetite, nervousness, headaches, biliousness, catarrh, rheumatism, and such blood disorders as scurvy, pimples, blotches, boils and eruptions. The first bottle usually shows splendid results, and a full treatment brings permanent results.

Drecto is sold by all druggists and is highly recommended in this city by:

SHANTUNG FIGHT OPENS IN SENATE

BELIEVED THAT THIS AMENDMENT TO PACT WILL ALSO BE DEFEATED.

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Shantung will be the chief issue in the peace treaty fight in the senate this week. The amendment to restore to China the German concessions in the Chinese province which were seized by Japan during the war probably will be voted on Wednesday or Thursday. Owing to the continued opposition of the so-called "mild reservationists" on the republican side to textual changes of the treaty, even some of the amendment supporters concede that it is likely to be defeated just as were the Fall amendments last week.

SEEING THE WORLD SERIES FREE

(By J. E. Blair)

In view of certain skeptical remarks that fell upon the too-willing-to-believe-them errors of a certain higher-up, about my seeing a world series base ball game for nothing, it was revealed to me by the said higher-up, that I should write exonerating myself. I could not see what I had to exonerate myself about, and said as much. I said that I just looked at the game in Cincinnati Wednesday for nothing as had been my wont and custom for so, these many years. My superior (and I have many), then grew choleric and said: "With people casting lots for standing room in these games and mostly drawing blanks and with real seats soaring above your means, can't you see there ain't no body will believe you saw that game for nothing unless you prove it? Go to it."

I was also told that I was to begin every sentence with a capital first personal pronoun as I was going to write a "feature story" on how I saw a world's series ball game for nothing. I protested that if I only had time to bone up on how Charles Dickens made a couple in "Vanity Fair" live for a year on nothing I might do it. In reply, I was told that I must sit down and exonerate myself at once. Well, I will follow instructions and use the letter "I" all I can and come as near writing a feature story as within me lies.

The gentle reader will please not rather from the words "me lies", that could possibly tell a lie, even George Washington, himself, could not do that.

The first time the doubt was raised in my hearing as to my seeing the world series game for nothing was during my night journey to Cincinnati. Council Elliot of Albany-Decatur, who was chaperoning T. A. Bowles of the same city, to the world's series of course, got after me in Nashville about the practicality of my venture. It happened as these two came out of their Pullman, and as I came out of my day coach, or night coach as the case was. The first question raised, after the pleasant of polite society were over with was: "What about your ticket?"

I informed my accusing neighbors that I did not have to have any ticket, that I was traveling on one of those pink slips that were once as popular among the rich in the happy days before Braxton Bragg Corner stopped the general distribution of passes in Alabama. (I was so full of faith that I was to get into the ball game for nothing that it did not occur to me that our local friends meant "ticket to the ball game").

As both of the named gentlemen are reputed to be very rich, they possibly thought I was making fun of them; any way the conversation ended very abruptly. But I opened it again. There was a reason. I reflected on the good American habit of being prepared and of how Commander Reed, perhaps it was, out flew everybody across the Atlantic, including one Harry Hawker, by much preparation so I said to Mr. Bowles the banker, "Where are you going?" Thinking of course he would know I meant to say, "to what hotel?" since everybody of course was going to the world's "series." Mr. Bowles was counter attacking or hedging at any rate, as I now believe, when he said: "Why, to the ball game of course."

Deep Seated Reason

The two reasons why I believe that T. A. purposely evaded my direct question are: First, he knew I was always on the borrow. Secondly, his weak smile and the weak way he said "All right Blair," after I had ascertained that he was to stop at the Gibson house, and asked him to lend me some money if I needed it while in the great city.

I managed to remember the name of Mr. Bowles' hotel, by associating it with the surname of J. W. Gibson, a good Baptist Deacon that I see almost every day.

To any fair minded person who also knows the condition of my money pocket, the fact that I did not have to call on Mr. Bowles for financial aid in Cincinnati is proof enough that I saw the ball game for nothing.

But as we are just now coming to the interesting part of the story I will continue and give further proof.

As the Cincinnati Post is the only daily from that city delivered by carriers in Albany-Decatur, it occurred to me that to see its sporting editor would be a good thing for the purposes I had in mind. This fellow scribbled very nice about it, when he gave me to understand that he could do nothing for me (of course it will occur to any intelligent reader who knows me that I was trying to get into the world series for nothing). But the Post Sporting Editor, who was small as to body only, did give me a name on a slip of scratch paper, the owner of which proved to be my salvation. And I am going to say right here, if it gets "killed," that if the Bolshevik ever invade Cincinnati, and follow their European practice of killing first the best and the biggest citizens, that I shall expect Jack Ryder, Sporting Editor of the Enquirer and the man who had entire charge of the arrangements and arrangements. At the world's series, will be missing some fine morning. And also I will say this, that I will apply by wire for the honor of chief mourner at his funeral if the above mournful prophecy comes to pass. It was Mr. Ryder, standing, or walking to be exact, over six feet when I first saw him and who I learned by private inquiry, employ's hay scales whenever he wishes to weigh, who finally dissipated all my doubts as to whether or not I would see the game for nothing. I first met Mr. Ryder at the Enquirer office and after I had called his attention to myself as favorably as possible, he smiled a smile that would have made me weep for joy if I had not been in such dead earnest and said: "Meet me at the Sinton Hotel at 10 o'clock and I will fix you up."

Taking No Chances

I had previously got a lady clerk at the Enquirer office to assure me that Mr. Ryder would positively have to show up at the office on the morning of Oct. 1st to get his mail, or else I would positively have sought him out wherever he was. I was too far from home and too near Red-land park to fail now! I did do a thing akin to such persistency as going to Mr. Ryder's sleeping quarters, when I waited around the Enquirer office until he finally started for the Sinton hotel. Then I followed not far off. Also I had taken the precaution to read in the morning's Enquirer, (which I understand was for free distribution at the office), Mr. Ryder's pre-world series story which was a thing of beauty and a joy for ever, to me. I am afraid I strained its writer's confidence in me much, by praise of his story, for once his keen gray eyes looked me over and his firm lips said: "Did you come all the way from Alabama?" Later, when the long line was formed in the parlors of the Sinton hotel of men from all over the nation seeking free transportation into the world's series, I fear my persistent persistency got me in bad.

I got too near the head of the line. And another thing, since I am telling the whole truth, I had to be told to wait more than once in that line up.

But in justice to my sense of propriety, it should be added that a severe tooth ache was on me as a result of my strenuous effort to get something for nothing and it caused me to act too impatiently for my ticket into the grounds, for my bronze, press badge, and the large round placard admitting me to the "perpetual banquet" as served by Mr. Ryder and his associates, to all their guests, and held within the grandstand dining room out at the ball park.

And Free Eats, Too

Before the game was on I was taken in tow by a dandy old Yankee editor from near Chicago, who said he saw the Jeffries-Johnson fight, that Chief Bender lived in thirty miles of him, and that Eddie Collins, the young collegian of the Sox, had more ball sense than John McGraw.

And in turn I took along a Kansas country editor, who if anything, was greener than I was. Any way he could not control his facial muscles as well, for he just smiled right into Mr. Ryder's face when he got his free outfit, and also his hand trembled when I noticed.

This good fellow remarked when the practice was on, and when the fans were stealing (as souvenirs) any stray ball: "It will take several bushels of balls to play this game." My seat number was 367, and I set by an ex-professional ball player, who was also a former aviator and wounded during the war, and at present a statistician for the Cincinnati Enquirer.

He gave me all the points he could on the game, but he was very busy taking the statistics of the game and would call me down when I would get noisy at good plays by Cincy. Always he explained the "I appreciate your spirit, however."

None of this high spirit, I wish to deny in advance, was due to anything they had to drink at the "perpetual banquet" unless it was partly from the cup "which cheers but does not inebriate."

Where Do They Get That Stuff?

I saw what they said was real beer. They had it in bottles and numerous of these bottles were standing on a moving table, much like the old fashioned revolving dinner tables, only not so large, that I used to see in the country years and years ago. Besides, this "beer table" was immersed in water, thick with small icebergs, to insure the beer to be as cold as desired by the most fastidious.

A nice looking photographer came up to me during the time we were eating before the game and invited me to have some "mighty fine Kentucky whiskey." If the liquor was as nice as the young man looked it could not have had an "adder" in it; but I did not try it.

During another one of our banqueting spells, I was told by its maker, that the great pot of what Y. M. C. A. Secretary Doc, Thompson would call "Brunswick stew" had been cooking for two whole days, that it had 21 separate ingredients in it including 4 gallons of Sherry wine, also the cook added that he had been told to drink two of the gallons of Sherry himself. I was told on the train and everywhere that Cincinnati was a strictly Southern city in spirit.

Its people certainly did out-do Southern hospitality on the first day of the world series.

More impressive than the great game, to me was the patriotic demonstration and band music prior to the game. This entertainment reached a climax when the "Star Spangled Banner" was struck up while the 31,000 fans stood silent with heads bared. It was an unwelcome sight to any Bolshevik, non-patriotic element, if any were present, but a dear one to all true men and women. This climax had a top story put on to it when John Philip Sousa was seen to walk to near home plate, stop, and stand at strict attention until the nation's martial air was completed. Then amid cheers, the greatest band master of all time, perhaps, came forward according to appointment, and directed the great orchestra band as it played Sousa's own masterpiece production: "The Stars and Stripes Forever."
